On March 29th, 2018, the Government of Ghana entered into an agreement with Ghana Link Services Ltd for the provision of a fully integrated trade facilitation and customs management system (Integrated Customs Management System – (ICUMS) for Ghana Revenue Authority – Customs Division. ICUMS is a total customs administration solution, customizable to fit any environment by integrating the know-how and experience accumulated throughout the history of its development. The system is a tailor-measured technology from the Korea Custom, UNI-PASS is the only technology in the area of trade facilitation, security/safety and revenue mobilization developed by a customs agency aimed at solving customs and trade-related issues. It also offers importers and exporters an integrated system of filing all documents and helps businesses to send information regarding consignment simultaneously to each agency concerned for swift response in trade facilitation. An end-to-end system that has increased trade facilitation and reduced the turnaround time at the various ports of entry enabling the sharing of timely information among regulatory agencies, stakeholders (such as those mandated by government to perform special tasks), and customs. Regulatory information sharing goes beyond the issuance of permits, but information for statistical analysis and decision making. Through the clearance management system in the ICUMS, all customs businesses are currently conducted in a paperless environment with a real time cargo tracking through the cargo management system (CMS) and is able to collect bills of lading from shipping companies, airlines and agents, and assign a cargo tracking number to each consignment.

MADAM MAUD LINDSEY-GAMRAT (CEO, ATLANTIC CATERING AND LOGISTICS LIMITED)

Maud Lindsay-Gamrat, the queen in the kitchen and the queen on and offshore in the petroleum sector has been providing stellar services in the oil and gas industry with her company, Atlantic Catering and Logistics Limited. Maud Lindsey-Gamrat, holds a Degree in Business Administration from the University of Professional Studies. Armed with this degree, one would think she should be running a business tailored towards the calculations but no, after working in the public sector and experiencing the lackluster treatment of people, she decided to run a business that fills bellies of people and treats them like kings and queens. Typical of someone who runs a tight ship, Maud reveals why she chose the oil and gas industry. To her, the industry is one of the biggest that needs daily service onshore and offshore due to the nature of their jobs. Her biggest pet peeve in business she notes is competent workers.

MADAM JANE REASON AHIAADZE

Madam Jane Reason Akushika Ahadzie, born to Mr. David Kwaku Ahadzie of Agbozome and Madam Augustina Yekporwo Seseu of Kedzi both in the Volta Region of Ghana.

At a tender age of 15 years she managed herself as a successful business "Woman". Later in life after the completion of her secondary education started a fashion design trade named "STOPOVER AFRICAN WEAR HOUSE" in Takoradi with just about 10 people. Out of the money she made from "STOPOVER AFRICAN WEAR HOUSE" she started buying chemicals to start her cosmetics business. It wasn't easy from the inception to set up the cosmetics business as there were ups and downs but with persistence and dedication she never gave up. She kept encouraging herself and worked hard towards her dream of becoming an Entrepreneur. She never takes "NO" for an answer. She always turns a "NO" to be the Next Opportunity.
